Murder charged in fatal crash

by Lilly Adkins
ASSOCIATE EDITOR

LOUISA — A preliminary hearing is set today (Wednesday) for a Johnson County man charged with murder in the death of a motorcyclist following a high-speed chase Friday night in Lawrence County.

Joshua A. Fitzpatrick, 34, of Paintsville, is charged with murder, first-degree fleeing and evading police, operating a motor vehicle under the influence of alcohol/drugs and driving on a suspended operators license.

According to a press release issued by the Kentucky State Police at Post 14 in Ashland, authorities received a report of a vehicle traveling north in a reckless manner on U.S. 23 at 6:28 p.m. Friday, and KSP Trooper Devan Cleaver responded.

Cleaver located the tan 2001 Toyota Camry, driven by Fitzpatrick and observed violations, at which time he initiated his emergency equipment and attempted to conduct a traffic stop, the release said. But the vehicle accelerated and traveled at a high rate of speed in an attempt to elude Cleaver, who continued to pursue the vehicle, which turned onto Ky. 644 and continued at a high rate of speed and in a reckless manner.

Attorney appears before committee

WASHINGTON, D.C. — A Floyd County attorney appeared but did not testify Monday before a Senate committee investigating allegations that he and a former judge conspired to defraud the Social Security disability program of millions of dollars.

“I respectfully assert my constitutional right not to testify here today, sir,” Stanville attorney Eric C. Conn told the Senate Committee on Homeland Security and Government Affairs Monday.

Conn’s appearance coincided with a 168-page committee staff report that said he and former administrative law judge David Daugherty schemed to bilk the Social Security Administration out of millions of dollars in fraudulent disability claims.

The report’s findings echo a lawsuit filed in federal court by a current SSA employee, Sarah Carver, and a former worker, Jennifer Griffith, from the regional office in Huntington, W.Va. Both women testified before the Senate committee Monday.

The lawsuit says the “fraudulent scheme involved Daugherty wrongfully taking control of a high number of Conn’s clients’ Social Security disability claims

PSC ruling upsets local officials

by Lilly Adkins
ASSOCIATE EDITOR

FRANKFORT — The Kentucky Public Service Commission announced in a press release Monday that it has “conditionally approved” Kentucky Power Company’s proposal to purchase a half interest in the Mitchell Plant in Moundsville, W.Va., to replace its Big Sandy Plant when it retires in 2015.

Kentucky Power has a week to decide whether it will accept the modifications the PSC made to the agreement, including increased economic development funding and clarifications to certain other provisions.

House Majority Leader Rocky Adkins is not pleased with the decision and said in a statement Tuesday that there is a better plan.

“Devastating is not a word to use lightly as it describes great damage, harm and destruction,” Adkins said. “But I believe it perfectly illustrates the effects Lawrence County and our region will experience as a direct result of the Public Service Commission’s decision to close our Big Sandy Power Plant’s Unit 2. Our options include asking the PSC to reconsider its order. The commission’s order can be appealed to the circuit court as well. I cannot disagree more. This decision will cut 160 or more jobs at the plant, wipe out one million dollars in tax revenues for our schools and county government and create a downward economic spiral that will have lasting, negative effects for our communities and region for years to come.”

Lawrence County Judge-Executive John Osborne said he was hoping for a better decision from the PSC, but that he wasn’t surprised.

“I don’t like the ruling, and I don’t think it will be good for this county,” Osborne said. “I don’t know what else we can do but what State Representative Rocky Adkins

Feds to seek death penalty in prison case

by Tony Fyffe
BSN MANAGING EDITOR

PIKEVILLE — Federal prosecutors will seek the death penalty for an inmate who allegedly killed another prisoner at the United States Penitentiary Big Sandy in Martin County in 2009.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Roger W. West filed notice Thursday in federal court in Pikeville that the government “believes, and therefore avers, that the circumstances of the offenses charged in the indictment” against John Travis Millner are “such that, in the event of a conviction, a sentence of death is justified” pursuant to federal law.

“Accordingly, the Government intends to seek a sentence of death upon the conviction of defendant John Travis Millner for any of the offense charged in the Indictment,” the notice says.

Millner, 31, who is now an inmate at a federal prison in Lewisburg, Pa., is charged with murder by a federal prisoner serving a life sentence and first-degree murder.

PSC: Local officials upset over Kentucky Power ruling

has suggested and that is to appeal it. An employee who works there told me that the company makes their plans years in advance and that they knew and said 15 years ago that the PSC was going to ask for these upgrades, but they sat there and waited and didn't do anything. They already knew what they were going to do. I just think it's a shame."

The PSC noted that the shutdown of the Big Sandy Unit would result in job loss and a decrease in tax revenue in Lawrence County, with the "economic effects extending to neighboring counties" as well. As a condition to the agreement, the PSC directed Kentucky Power to more than double the amount of shareholder money it had voluntarily agreed to spend on economic development efforts, including job training.

The PSC required Kentucky Power to spend at least $233,000 in each of the next five years, with $33,000 going to job training programs through the Kentucky Community and Technical College System to be focused on weatherization and energy efficiency.

Key provisions of the agreement, in addition to the Mitchell purchase, include a freeze on Kentucky Power's base rates until May, 31, 2015, and withdrawal of a pending application to increase rates by 24 percent; a $44 million annual limit, to extend for 17 months, on recovery of costs associated with the Mitchell acquisition, with the recovery coming via a surcharge; a pledge to contribute $100,000 annually to economic development efforts in Lawrence and five neighboring counties, including at least $33,000 annually on job training; a 20 percent increase in Kentucky Power's shareholder contribution to its energy assistance program for low-income ratepayers; a doubling, to $6 million per year, of Kentucky Power's program to help its customers save energy through weatherization; and a commitment by Kentucky Power to consider the purchase of 100 megawatts of wind power the next time the company seeks additional generating capacity.

The change in the agreement made by the PSC also denies Kentucky Power to separately account for and to recover from ratepayers $28.1 million spent to study whether or not to upgrade the Big Sandy Plant.

"Imposing that cost on ratepayers is not reasonable," the PSC said in its ruling. "Instead, Kentucky Power can write it off."

"Even with all the changes the PSC made to the agreement, you can bet they will not lose any money," Osborne said.

The PSC also took note of comments by Adkins and Lawrence County Attorney Mike Hogan, who both urged the panel to reconsider the decision not to upgrade the Big Sandy Plant, arguing that keeping the plant open would preserve well-paying jobs, tax revenue and coal sales.

"The Commission greatly appreciates the participation of elected officials and affected customers in this important process," the PSC said. "The statutory standard that applies in this case is only whether the Mitchell acquisition is necessary in light of the decision to retire Big Sandy and whether it is the lowest cost reasonable option available. Thus, arguments on economic benefits to specific areas of Kentucky Power's service territory are beyond the scope of the Commission's jurisdiction."

The PSC said in its order that it found Kentucky Power's proposal to purchase 50 percent of the Mitchell Plant to be the least costly of the options available to the company to maintain adequate generating capacity.

The 780 megawatts of coal-fired capacity at Mitchell will replace an 800-megawatt coal-fired unit at Kentucky Power's Big Sandy plant near Louisa.

"Purchasing half of the Mitchell plant will cost much less than bringing Big Sandy's larger unit into environmental compliance," the PSC said in its order.

The Mitchell purchase will cost about $536 million, whereas upgrading Big Sandy to meet stricter U.S. Environmental Protection Agency air quality rules would cost nearly $1 billion, the PSC said. When operating costs are factored in, it will cost ratepayers about $59 million less annually than the plan to upgrade Big Sandy, the ruling said.

Adkins said there "was and is a better plan and I fought for that plan for the last two years."

"I believe, and made my case to the PSC on several occasions, that putting scrubbers on Big Sandy is the best low-cost option in the short run and the best low-cost option over the next 30 years," Adkins said. "I don't think there was a fair calculation of what is the least cost option by the PSC and I am terribly disappointed that they did not fully assess the data in the record that bore those facts out. And I wasn't alone."

Adkins said in his release that the Kentucky Attorney General's Office said in a media statement that Kentucky Power had not thoroughly evaluated other options and did not conduct and economic feasibility study as the law requires to determine whether the ratepayers could afford the increased rates resulting from the plan.

"The Kentucky Attorney General, who represents consumers in rate cases, also said that he is exploring legal options regarding the ruling," Adkins said in the release. "Lawrence County Attorney Mike Hogan has pled the case for retrofitting Big Sandy with scrubbers as well, along with countless residents, business owners, school and local government officials, who know too well that we cannot sustain another devastating economic hit that this decision brings."

The PSC said the Mitchell acquisition will increase Kentucky Power's rates by about 14 percent, while a Big Sandy upgrade would have increased rates by 26 percent.

Adkins said there could be merit in considering other uses for the Big Sandy Plant and one possibility is the facility being purchased by investors or another utility company. Another option would be to pursue a portion of the $8 billion in federal monies to retrofit the plant, utilizing state of the art technology that would preserve the plant and jobs for generations to come, he said.

"This would be a monumental effort, but if successful, would create hundreds of permanent jobs and a thousand construction jobs; capitalize on Kentucky's national reputation as the leader in energy technologies; bring about stability and certainty for our region's ratepayers; and provide an economic burst of activity that could literally change our future," Adkins said. "While the PSC decision has devastating consequences, it will not stop me or you from focusing on our next steps to save Big Sandy. We will either convince them they've made a bad decision, or we will go forward to manage our own destiny with bold ideas."

from randomly assigned administrative law judges and conducting sham proceedings, resulting in the Conn clients overwhelmingly and fraudulently obtaining successful results. For example, during fiscal year 2010 Daugherty approved 99.7% of all Social Security claims while the national average of successful claims were approximately 62%. The fraudulent scheme resulted in millions of dollars in fraudulently obtained attorneys fees to Conn."

The Senate committee reports says Conn "used his law practice to exploit key vulnerabilities in a critical safety net program and became wealthy in the process."

"By 2011, Mr. Conn and Judge Daugherty had collaborated on a scheme that enabled the judge to approve, in assembly-line fashion, hundreds of clients for disability benefits using manufactured medical evidence."

Daugherty was subpoenaed but did not appear before the Senate panel.

Republican Sen. Tom Coburn of Oklahoma, a member of the committee, said during the hearing that the Social Security Disability Trust Fund could be depleted in "just two years" because of the lack of oversight by the SSA.

"That means millions of disabled Americans will face benefit cuts while every American could see an increase in their payroll taxes," Coburn said. "That is unacceptable. What is also outrageous, as this report details, is how well-heeled and well-connected lawyers, doctors and judges have gamed the system for their own benefit. Every bogus claim made on behalf of someone who is not truly disabled robs taxpayers and denies or delays benefits for someone who is truly disabled."

Conn has asked that the lawsuit be dismissed. In his formal answer to the suit, Conn claims that Carver and Griffith leaked the lawsuit to a congressional subcommittee while the document was under seal.

Video of Monday's hearing can be viewed on the committee's Web site, www.hsgac.senate.gov.

PRISON: Feds will seek death penalty for prisoner

According to the indictment, on Jan. 28, 2009, Millner, while confined in the federal prison in Martin County under a life sentence, did with “malice aforethought, kill another human being, to wit, Vincent E. Smith Jr., which killing is murder as defined in 18 U.S.C. 1111(a).”

At the time of the killing, The Big Sandy News reported information posted on the Council of Prison Local 33 Web site, but the names of the individuals involved in the incident were not released at the time.

The Web site said an inmate assault occurred in a two-man cell at approximately 4:56 p.m. on Jan. 28, 2009.

“One man began stabbing another inmate in the head, neck and back area,” the report said. “Responding staff arrived and the inmate dropped his homemade weapon, a shank and gave up. The inmate that was stabbed was transported to a local hospital where he was pronounced dead.”

West’s notice said federal prosecutors can prove their case against Millner, saying the inmate “committed the offense in an especially heinous, cruel, or depraved manner in that it involved torture or serious physical abuse” to Smith.

The notice said Millner was convicted of first-degree (premeditated) murder in the December 2001 shooting death of Walter Louis Coates in Washington, D.C. and was sentenced to life in prison without the possibility of release.

The notice also included a list of other offenses committed by Millner since he has been in the federal prison system, including numerous assaults.

Millner “poses a continuing danger to others in that he is likely to commit additional acts of violence in any setting against inmates, correctional officers, staff, officials, employees, consultants, visitors, and others, at correctional institutions where he is or will be incarcerated as evidenced by his past acts of violence and dangerousness, and his pattern of violence,” the notice said.

Millner is scheduled for arraignment Oct. 16.

Fitzpatrick lost control of the vehicle as he passed the intersection of Ky. 644 and B Street, traveling into the westbound lane on Ky. 644 and into the path of a motorcycle operated by Johnny K. Maynard Jr. 40, of Catlettsburg, the release said.

Maynard suffered several life-threatening injuries as he was thrown from the motorcycle upon impact, the release said. He was transported by NetCare Ambulance Service to Three Rivers Medical Center in Lawrence County and was pronounced dead by Assistant Lawrence County Coroner Raymond Byrd at 8:40 p.m., the release said.

It was later reported that Fitzpatrick had been engaged in a domestic dispute in Paintsville earlier in the day and had fled the scene in a stolen tan 2001 Toyota Camry, the release said.

Fitzpatrick was taken into custody and is lodged in the Big Sandy Regional Detention Center in Johnson County. His preliminary hearing is scheduled for 11 a.m. today in Lawrence District Court.

The case is under investigation by KSP Det. Ben Cramer.

Other agencies responding and assisting at the scene included Kentucky Commercial Vehicle Enforcement, the Louisa police and fire departments, NetCare Ambulance Service and the Lawrence County Coroner’s Office.

Funeral services for Maynard, the owner of Full Throttle Construction, will be 2 p.m. today (Wednesday) at Young Funeral Home Chapel in Louisa, with burial in Pinehill Cemetery, also in Louisa.

ville, who was indicted last month on second-degree manslaughter and first-offense DUI charges, pleaded not guilty during her arraignment Friday in Johnson Circuit Court.

Castle reportedly had a blood alcohol content of 0.200 at the time of the collision.

Nearly 20 protestors armed with signs cased the steps of the Johnson County Judicial Center Friday asking for justice and to show their intolerance for driving impaired.

Castle is represented by Prestonsburg attorney Ned Pillersdorf.

According to the indictment, on or before Aug. 16, Castle allegedly acted wantonly in the operation of her motor vehicle and caused the death of Mollett.

The indictment also says she was operating her motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol or other substances at the time of the crash.

According to a press release after the crash, Castle crossed the center line of the roadway and struck the motorcycle operated by Mollett on Rt. 201 in the Sitka community of Johnson County. Mollett was pronounced dead at the scene by Johnson County Coroner J.R. Frisby.

Castle was transported to Paul B. Hall Medical Center in Johnson County following the crash and allegedly admitted to having drunk vodka earlier in the day. She also agreed to submit to a chemical test.

During the course of Evalene Childers’ trial, jurors heard testimony from two confidential informants and also viewed a video transac-

Childers and her husband were indicted in April.

According to the indictment, on or before Aug. 15, 2012, the couple, acting alone or in complicity with each other, trafficked 10 units of a schedule II controlled substance, Oxycodone; on Aug. 30, 2012, they trafficked 12 units of Oxycodone; and on Nov. 14, 2012, they trafficked another four dosage units of Oxycodone.

Officials cut ribbon for BSCTC project

PAINTSVILLE — Big Sandy Community and Technical College (BSCTC) officially opened the new park on its Mayo campus Tuesday afternoon, Oct. 1.

The park, constructed on a half-acre plot where the former Building B once stood, is one of the first sustainable parks of its kind in Eastern Kentucky. Even before the park was constructed, the college's efforts in conserving energy led to raising most of the funds used to tear down Building B and begin the project.

"We were able to essentially save around $80,000 in our efforts to become more energy efficient," said John Herald, director of facilities at BSCTC.

The money came in the form of a rebate from Kentucky Power through the help of the Kentucky Community and Technical College's (KCTCS) Green Plus Initiative.

Dr. Michael B. McCall, president of KCTCS, said the BSCTC's commitment to students and the environment is to be commended.

"You are here to serve students, and, in this case, the students gave back," said McCall.

Students from the masonry and carpentry programs on the Mayo campus constructed many of the amenities at the park, including a 24-foot gazebo, beautifully manicured gardens, walkways, swings and a pergola.

"What you are going to do by 2020 — you're going to save more energy because it's a fact of life that we must conserve."

The park features many environmentally friendly features, including benches made of recycled plastic, recycled mulch and solar-powers pathway lighting. Additionally, solar power will be used for part of the electricity used in the gazebo. There will also be recycling bins at the park for the school and the community to use.

"This is a major step in the right direction," said McCall.

Dr. George D. Edwards, president and CEO of BSCTC, said the park exemplifies the college's commitment to its students and community.

"This will be a gathering place for students on this campus and also those who live in and around Paintsville," he said. "I'm just extremely proud of our school, proud of our community and very proud of our students."

Johnson County Judge-Executive Tucker Daniel said the opening of the new park adds to the significance of the Mayo campus to not just higher education but also its role as a community leader.

"For years, students have learned life skills to prepare them for jobs in the workplace here," said Daniel.

This year, the Mayo campus is celebrating 75 years as BSCTC marks three milestone anniversaries. Prestonsburg Community College is marking 50 years and 10 years ago, the Mayo and Prestonsburg campuses merged to form BSCTC.

Paintsville City Councilman Bill Mike Runyon told those in attendance that BSCTC "added a beautiful park to the landscape of the city."

Angela Burton, who retired from Mayo in 1999 and currently works for BSCTC, gave a detailed history of the building, including a visit to the campus by President Lyndon B. Johnson in 1964.

She even met her husband, Harold Burton, the director of the Kentucky Coal Academy and interim director of Workforce Solutions at BSCTC, while they were students on campus.

"I was in Building B and [Harold] was in Building C," she said, laughing.

Built in 1957 at a cost of $200,000, Building B housed the auto mechanics program on the first floor and business and cosmetology on the second floor.

Angie Burton went on to add that President Johnson's visit in 1964 demonstrated Mayo's cutting-edge approach to workforce development, much as it does today.

"The Mayo campus was and remains a leader in training our workforce and helping people attain productive employment," she said. "We have witnessed a huge change here on campus without Building B, but we hope with the construction of Mayo's new park, our employees, students, children, and community members will have a place where they can relax, reminisce and enjoy the outside beauty of nature."

Her remarks ended with a quote from Nelson Mandela: "Education is the most powerful weapon which you can use to change the world."

Burton continued, "Mayo, Prestonsburg Community College and Big Sandy Community and Technical College has changed the world for many families in eastern Kentucky and continues to work toward that goal."

There are still many naming opportunities at the park, including the gazebo, trees, benches and swings. In the near future, there will be memorial and commemorative bricks as well. For more information on sponsorships and naming rights, contact Kelli Hall, director of advancement, at (606) 886-7382 or email kelli.hall@kctcs.edu.

Johnson couple present gift

PIKEVILLE — Local business leaders Dennis and Jean Dorton provided a gift to the University of Pikeville in support of the Coleman College of Business.

The gift is in honor of Dennis Dorton's father, O.T. Dorton, who served on the board of trustees from 1984-1989.

The Dorton family has been leaders in the banking industry for three generations. O.T. and Dennis Dorton were both presidents of Citizens National Bank, based in Paintsville. Dennis Dorton served at Citizens National Bank for 42 years. His grandfather, D.H. Dorton Sr., also served the bank as president.

Jean Dorton was a founding member of the Eastern Kentucky Federated Republican Women and a member of the University of Pikeville Board of Trustees. She served on the Paintsville City Council, and currently serves on the board for the Center for Rural Development and on the PRIDE Executive Committee.

The Coleman College of Business was established in July to educate the next generation of innovators, entrepreneurs and business leaders.

"Jean and Denny Dorton have served the citizens of eastern Kentucky unselfishly," said Howard V. Roberts, founding dean of the Coleman College of Business. "Their dedication and service to education is exemplary, while the time they have devoted to community and civic groups is admirable. Our communities are better because of their generosity and leadership. We are grateful for this gift and for their support."

3 simple ways to lower your winter electric bill

by Kim Komando

Kim Komando hosts the nation's largest talk radio show about consumer electronics, computers and the Internet.

The leaves are starting to curl, there's a chill in the air and pumpkin-flavored treats are everywhere. That's right folks: It's fall. Here at the Kim Komando Show studios in Phoenix, the fall season means no more triple-digit temperatures!

Of course, when fall arrives, winter can't be too far behind. And when temperatures start to drop, you can bet your monthly electric bill will start to climb.

No need to panic, though. You can save money without giving up the comforts of a warm and toasty home. I have some tips to keep your electric bills under control this winter - or any other season.

1. Keep vampire electronics under control

You probably already know about easy winter fixes like sealing gaps around doors and windows to prevent precious heat from escaping. But did you know your home is filled with dozens of other energy-draining culprits? I call these foes vampire electronics.

TVs, computers and other gadgets are guilty of sucking lots of energy day and night - even when you're not using them. The EPA estimates that these idle gadgets burn through more than 100 billion kilowatt hours of electricity nationwide each year. That's about $10 billion worth of energy.

The easiest way to stop vampire electronics from driving up your electric bill is to unplug them when they're not in use. Of course, sometimes it's hard to give up the convenience of having your gadgets plugged in and ready to go at a moment's notice.

If that's the case, many companies sell affordable power switches that you can plug into wall outlets. The power switches let you control the power to any outlet with a simple flick of a switch. Use these switches on countertop appliances like your coffeemaker and watch savings add up.

Another great option is adapters with built-in timers. If you plan to use space heaters or put up holiday lights this winter, using a built-in timer can shave dollars and cents off your winter electric bill. Timers also offer peace of mind on those hectic days when you can't remember if you turned off your gadgets before leaving the house.

Big-ticket items like your TV and computer are the biggest energy-suckers. Use a smart power strip or surge suppressor for these gadgets. Smart power strips will shut down a power outlet when it senses your gadgets have gone into standby mode.

And did you know that putting your desktop computer in Sleep Mode and Hibernate can save almost as much energy as unplugging it? Go here to find out whether you should be using Sleep or Hibernate: <http://www.komando.com/tips/index.aspx?id=13704>

Not sure what gadgets are draining the most energy? You can also buy electricity usage monitors that will pinpoint exactly which appliances and electronics are the biggest winter energy culprits.

2. Limit your usage in 'peak hours'

THE PAINTSVILLE HIGH School class of 1969 held its annual class reunion Sunday, Oct. 6, in the PHS cafeteria. Twenty-eight classmates attended the reunion along with many of their spouses and friends. The class also remembered the 13 members who have died throughout the years. The class thanks the Paintsville superintendent and the Board of Education for allowing the class to meet at the school again this year.

Conditions are good for refi

PAINTSVILLE — With housing market recovery spreading from the east and west coast into the Midwest, the Kentucky housing market and that of the neighboring region is hearing some good news.

"Housing prices are stabilizing and appreciating," says V. Burton Bellamy, CEO of Citizens National Bank. "With the recent decision by the Federal Reserve to maintain the current monetary policy, buyers are still able to take advantage of low interest rates, and that continues to spur the recovery in the housing market."

With a low cost of living approximately 12.00 percent less than the U.S. average, along with quality schools, family-friendly neighborhoods and business-friendly communities, Eastern Kentucky has seen an upswing in both the number of sales and existing home values, he said. The area offers a diverse range of housing prices, from million dollar estates to homes well below the average price tag of $120,000, along with low crime, low population density and very reasonable property tax, he added.

"In terms of real estate, Eastern Kentucky has much to offer the American family, established business owner and the entrepreneur. Though rates have risen slightly, they still remain at a historic low and have actually worked to create a rare kind of housing market that is both a buyers' and sellers' market," said Bellamy. "It's perhaps one of the best market conditions I've seen for refinancing or mortgaging a new home."

BLESSINGS

PETS ARRIVED AT Our Lady of the Mountains in Paintsville for the annual blessing, which occurs close to the celebration of Saint Francis Day, Oct. 4. The traditional blessing given by Father Terrence Hoppenjans, pastor of Saint Michael Church, "reminds us of Saint Francis' care for animals and all creation," according to a press release from the school. "While pets are blessed we know that they bless us by their companionship, and the many ways in which they help us."

Energy partnership is now permanent

BEREA — A recent decision by the Kentucky Public Service Commission (PSC) has paved the way for growth in a new form of home energy efficiency. How$martKY, a home energy efficiency partnership between the Mountain Association for Community Economic Development (MACED) and participating rural electric cooperatives, has just been made permanent through a PSC tariff.

The permanent tariff paves the way for rural electric cooperatives across the state to join the How$martKY program, which the PSC said has "encouraged energy conservation, lowered consumer bills and will result in reduced future demand." The program had previously been restricted to three eastern Kentucky co-ops: Big Sandy Rural Electric Cooperative Corporation (RECC), Fleming-Mason RECC and Grayson RECC.

The How$martKY program allows rural electric co-op customers to pay for energy efficiency upgrades in their homes with the electric-bill savings those upgrades create. This on-bill financing allows customers to make upgrades at little to no out-of-pocket cost, making the program available to low- to middle-income homeowners.

How$martKY program coordinator Bill Blair said the PSC's approval would not have been possible without the help of the program's RECC partners.

"We could not have made this program so successful without the strong partnerships we built with our RECC partners," Blair said. "Their help in implementing How$martKY has been invaluable, and we look forward to working with them, and many other utilities, in the future."

In addition to energy and money saved, How$martKY also improves quality of life for customers by making their homes more comfortable as a result of energy efficiency upgrades. On a recent

How$martKY customer survey, almost 88 percent of respondents said their homes were more comfortable than before the retrofit.

How$martKY has completed energy efficiency upgrades at 127 homes in Appalachian Kentucky, which has produced an average of $76,000 in annual electric-bill savings. The program saves an average of 4,800 kWh of electricity a year, which equals an average of $500 in yearly savings per How$martKY customer. Customers are charged an average of $40 a month on their electric bills to pay for the energy efficient upgrades in their homes.

THREE:

You can save money on your electric bill simply by changing the time of day you run the oven, do laundry or run the heater. That's because power companies change electric costs based on the time of day. It can cost 30 to 60 percent more to operate your electronics during peak hours of energy usage.

Peak hours are usually between 6 to 10 a.m. and 3 to 9 p.m. Weekends and holidays tend to be "off-peak." Every company defines peak hours a little bit different, so make sure to check with your provider for exact times.

Doing chores during off-peak hours is a simple way to lower your electric bill. So, save the laundry for the weekend, and turn the heater back a few notches during peak evening hours.

3. Save with energy-friendly gadgets

Energy-saving gadgets like Energy Star appliances can save you serious money in the long run. Did you know these gadgets might score you savings with your power company too?

You might qualify for rebates for purchasing energy-efficient appliances. Even switching to compact fluorescent bulbs or LED bulbs can count. Rebate eligibility will vary depending on your company, but it never hurts to ask.

If you're interested in buying energy-efficient appliances for your home, the Department of Energy has tons of tips about the latest in energy-saving gadgets at <http://www.komando.com/cool/sites/index.aspx?id=7970>

Now that you know how to save money on your electric bill this winter, throw some kindling in the fireplace and kick back with a cup of pumpkin-flavored coffee!
